

October 2007
Vancouver, WA

Prospective Exteriors Design Customer:

Our shabby and dated house was transformed to a showcase beautiful property by the craftsmen of Exteriors Design. This included new roof, siding and front porch. The result greatly exceeds our most optimistic expectations. The house is now the nicest looking in our neighborhood and we have received complements and statements of envy from neighbors as well as total strangers!

The various teams of Exteriors Design were brought together in harmonious action to quickly and expertly attend to all the needs of this reasonably complex remodel. When the inevitable hiccups occurred they were handled well and progress continued to the final result. Their workers were coordinated and available to insure our needs were met fully and completely. They were friendly and obviously took pride in their work.

Jon Girod, our neighbor and home builder, was the one to recommend Exteriors Design to us for their work. As President of Quail Homes (www.quailhomes.com) and a multi-generational Real Estate Developer he engages them as his primary contractor for Quail new houses. His homes are widely regarded and we can now see why. The same teams working on his homes are completing those of the well known high end builders in the area. We feel quite fortunate to have Jon recommend them and echo this message for those needing to update and or fix their existing homes.

The materials used were all top quality, and we feel the house is now in much better condition to face the Pacific Northwest elements than it was even as a new construction. This included Iko roofing, James Hardie siding and Trex decking.

We could not more highly recommend the skilled work of Exteriors Design.

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Joyce Becker". The signature is written in black ink and is positioned above the typed name.

-Jim & Joyce Becker